This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

TO

HON. EGBERT EUGENE CARR,

MARLBOROUGH, N. Y.,

A LIFE LONG PRINTER AND EDITOR, WHOSE EFFICIENT SERVICE HAS BEEN VERY VALUABLE TO THE AUTHOR, THIS BOOK IS RESPECTFULLY DEDICATED.

EXPLANATIONS.

The column of figures on the left hand side of the page denotes the number of each individual from one up to the highest number, so each person has a distinct and individual number, and by this plan anyone can trace his branch of the family forward or backward at pleasure. The number attached to a child in one generation, is placed in parenthesis after his name in the next generation, and so on down to the latest generation. To trace backward, reverse the order, and find the number in the left hand column which agrees with the number after the same name in the next higher generation. When there is a cross × sign between the number column and the number of children in a given family, it denotes that the person has descendants, and is carried on to the next generation. Names having no sign attached, signify that they either died young, lived and died unmarried, or there is no means to trace them any farther. Thus, 150×1, John Carr, would be John Carr, (150) in the next generation.

The index in the back part of the book gives the male and female names of all the Carrs who have married and had families, and those where any considerable mention is made of them; also the names of all those who have married into the Carr family.

PREFACE.

It is the desire of most people to know something of their ancestors, especially so, when they come from a long line of worthy men and women who have preceded them in the centuries which have passed. Prompted by this feeling, the author has spent years of patient toil to procure the matter of this book, and although he has not been able to give it in as thorough and complete a manner as desired, yet he trusts his efforts will be duly appreciated. Perhaps no one can form an adequate idea of the vast amount of labor necessary to complete such a work, unless they have had a good deal of experience in such an undertaking.

To gather all these facts from a great variety of sources, has cost much money and consumed a long period of time. Thousands of letters have been written to all parts of the country where any one by the name of Carr could be found; the records of New England towns have been carefully copied; and every old bible and ancient family document, has been laid under contribution to aid in completing the chain of so many generations of the family in this country.

The work might have been vastly more complete in detail, if hundreds who have been addressed on the subject, had manifested interest enough to reply to letters soliciting information. Others have very promptly responded with all the knowledge of family records within their reach, and manifested a great desire to aid all they could. The one rendering the greatest help in this direction was Walter Carr, of New York; and Hon. George C. Carr, of Jamestown, R. I., is deserving of much praise for his efficient assistance.

In matter of names, the plan has been to closely follow the spelling as received as far as possible, when common usage has not been very much trenched upon, supposing every one has the right to spell his or her own name in their own way. In matter of dates, the old and new style of ealier records are given just as found, and quaint expressions preserved to show the manner of conveying ideas by the early fathers. There are some instances where different dates have been sent in by persons representing the same branch of the family, but in such cases, those most generally agreeing have been followed.

Some copies of old wills have been given, and considerable biographical matter of persons who have risen to places of distinction introduced, together with incidents and family episodes to relieve the prolixity of a continuous recital of record matter.

Hoping my efforts to save the records of our noble family from being lost to posterity will meet with your kind approval, I am very sincerely your

Devoted relative,

EDSON I. CARR.

HISTORY.

The history of the English speaking family of the Carrs and Kerrs is as old as the Norman conquest. One of the followers of William 1st, taken from a charter in Battle Abbey, bears the name of Karre. The early posterity of this Norman soldier, undoubtedly settled in the north of England, and succeeding generations spread on both sides of the border land of England and Scotland, and afterward into the north of Ireland.

The orthography of the original name was modified by the English and Irish branches of the family, from the Norman-French Karre or Carre to the present name of Carr, which has been retained with but few exceptions ever since. The Scotch branch of the family had various ways of spelling the family name, but most generally either Karr, Kerr or Ker.

In the first centuries of the Norman rule in England, our family name took on various forms in writing, no doubt, largely due to the caprice of different members of the family, or the free and easy manner of writers in those days, who had very little regard for uniformity in such matters. From old documents we find that there were no less than ten different ways to express the name in writing, thus: Carre, Carr, Care, Car, Karre, Karr, Kar, Kerre, Kerr and Ker. Notwithstanding this marked difference in orthography, there was a general uniformity in the pronounciation of the name; the vowels a and e taking the quality of a in such words as far, mar, etc.

Just as various in writing the family name has been the colors of their arms and mottos. Although the original arms have always remained the same form olden times to the present—three mullets or etoiles on a chevron—the amplest play has been given to taste, fancy or ignorance of heroic patching with regard to colors. Also the crest, originally a hart's head, has in like manner been subjected to various changes. This distinguished family in its various branches possessed a great number of arms, many of them the author of this book has copied, but it would cost too much to produce them in this work.

The dificulty of tracing the early families of Carrs in England centuries back in a definite and concise manner, is exceedingly perplexing and attended with many failures and disappointments. The records of the earliest Carrs who settled in this country, date back three centuries,to four brothers who were born in London. Their names were Benjamin, William, George and James Carr. The name of the father of these four sons, the author has been unable to find. The descendants of these brothers, are given in the following pages of the Carr Family Records in as complete a manner as could be obtained.

CARR FAMILY RECORDS.

First Generation.

I. Benjamin Carr was born in London, Eng., Aug. 18, 1592. He married Martha Hardington, in London, Sept. 2, 1613. They both died in London. Their children were,

2×1. Robert Carr, b. October 4, 1614.
3×2. Caleb Carr, b. December 9, 1616.
4×3. Richard Carr, b. January 5, 1621.
5×4. Andrew Carr, b. December 5, 1622.

I. William Carr was born in London, Eng., June 17, 1597. He married Susan Rothchild, in London, May 16, 1619. She was born in Devonshire, Eng., April 30, 1598. They came to America in the fall of 1621, in the ship Fortune, Capt. Roger Williams, with thirty-five passengers on board. They landed at Plymouth, Nov. 7, 1621. They stayed the following winter in Plymouth, and on June 1, 1622, they started in a south-westerly direction through the trackless wilderness with an Indian for a guide, and after a journey on foot of forty-eight days, they located a home, July 18, 1622, where the town of Bristol, R. I., was afterward built. The town was laid out and named in 1636, by Roger Williams. William Carr died in Bristol, June 4, 1672, and his wife Susan died in the same place, May 3, 1671. They only had 6×1 George Carr, b. March 12, 1620.

There is an old bible which has come down to the present generation in the line of William Carr, which is a rare old treasure. It was printed in London in 1585. On the first blank page of this ancient book, is written in a woman's hand the following valuable record:

"My maiden name was Susan Rothchild. I was born in Devonshire, Eng., in the year of our Lord, A. D. 1598, April 30. I married William Carr, of London, May 16, 1619. He was born in 1597, June 17. Husband says he had a brother George Carr, who went to America in 1620. My husband has a brother Benjamin Carr, he was born Aug. 18, 1592. I am acquainted with him and his family. He has four sons, Robert Carr, born Oct. 4, 1614; Caleb Carr, born Dec. 9, 1616; Richard Carr, born Jan. 5, 1621; Andrew Carr, born Dec. 5, 1622. My son George Carr was born March 12, 1620. My husband had a brother James Carr. He ran away to sea when a boy and we never heard from him."

The following extract of historical interest, is taken from Mrs. William Carr's diary which is still preserved with the records of the family:

"It was a summer day in 1621, as I stood upon our ship's deck beside my husband with my infant son closely folded to my breast, while our noble captain, Roger Williams, stood by our side. I took a last view forever of my native isle, and forever bid it adieu, and all the scenes of my childhood home. My heart ached while bitter tears blinded my eyes. Never shall I forget the scenes of that day, as we took a last farewell of our friends with many promises that they would soon join us in America."

"Then the order was given by our captain to cast off our moorings, and our ship stood out in the Thames. After all sails were spread we took our course down the river. Each spot along its banks was dear to my soul, and while I was sad, the passengers, there being thirty-five, were singing and making merry that they were going to America. I could not join them for my heart was very sad."

"We had a pleasant sail down the Thames. Still I gazed upon my native isle with tearful eyes, and watched it when far out at sea, until the last receeding mountain vanished from my view. Our voyage was very pleasant for twenty days out to sea, and then we encountered a storm which lasted all the afternoon and following night. The weather was pleasant the rest of the way, and on the 6th day of November, 1621, the anchor was cast at dark some way out at sea for fear of unseen rocks."

"Next morning the boats were lowered and we landed, but what was my surprise! Lucinda, George Carr's wife, had died early in the spring before. My husband and George his brother and myself went to view her resting place. There with tearful eyes I viewed the last resting place of poor Lucinda Devenport, whom I had known in England. She had died in a foreign land of privation and cold, and was buried side by side with many others who had shared the same fate. My heart sank within me to think that I should never see Lucinda again. I had anticipated many happy hours with her, but my youthful hopes were forever blasted."

"We lived with brother George through the winter, living mostly on what game we caught. It was a cold, tedious winter with deep snow. Game was plenty such as deer and moose."

"On June 1, 1622, husband started south-west for a warmer climate, with a pocket compass and an Indian guide. Brother George went a two days' journey with us, and then returned home. I carried my son George in my arms and on my back through a dense forest settled only with wild beasts and Indians, but we met with few of the former and none of the latter. After being forty-eight days on our journey, July 18, husband concluded to stop and build a log cabin and to settle for life. In four days, husband, the Indian and myself, finished our log cabin, covering it with poles and peeled bark. My journey through the forest and the hard labor I had done in helping build our cabin, had its effect on me, I felt nearly worn out."

"I had left my rich parents and my only brother Robert in England, and had faced the storms and perils of the ocean with my noble companion, and had traveled with him forty-eight days through the forest. To my companion I had given my early love and pledged my hand for life. He was ever kind to me. We both belonged to the society of Friends."

"Before leaving England, father gave me £100 in gold coin, my brother gave me two doubloons in gold. This gold coin I sewed into the wadding of my petticoat. Mother gave me her gold diamond ring which cost £16. She took her gold watch from her pocket and gave it to me. It cost £25. She also gave me her gold locket and the gold chain that she wore with her watch, and bade me keep them to remember her by. The locket cost £10, and I lost it in my journey through the wilderness in coming here, but it was found by an Indian hunter in 1625, and returned to me. I had many happy days hunting deer with husband, as there was plenty of them in the forest, but I often thought of home and the dear ones there.

"Mr. William Codle joined us in 1628, with his wife, son and daughter from England. They belonged to the society of Friends."

"In 1635, Robert and Caleb Carr, husband's brother Benjamin Carr's two sons, were sent over from London to live with their uncle William, my husband. We had fine times hunting with the Indians, they were very friendly to us. Our bedding and clothing were nearly all skins and furs like the Indians, but in all these years I was mindful to educate my son George, although we were in a nameless wilderness."

"In 1636 Capt. Roger Williams, who had abandoned the sea, moved from Salem, bringing with him a colony of Friends, and settled with us, and set up a school free for all, young and old. The same year he bounded the state and called it Rhode Island, and named our place Bristol. He also surveyed and laid out towns and gave them names."

"A meeting was held at our cabin and we offered up our humble thanks to God, that we had met on this side of the ocean in a free land, beyond the persecution of Great Britain. How my heart thanked God that our noble captain who brought us safely across the ocean, had come to live with us, and preach and teach us to love God and to keep his commandments."

I. GEORGE CARR was born in London, Eng., about 1599. He married Lucinda Devenport and came to America in 1620, on the Mayflower, as a ship carpenter, bringing his young wife with him. He located with the pilgrims at Plymouth, and his wife was one of the unfortunate forty-one who died the following winter and early spring. A few years later he settled in Ipswich, and from there removed with the first settler of Cloechester, (Salisbury) Mass. He was granted an island in the Merrimac river for a home and the purposes of a shipyard, and it was called Carr's Island. The action of the town in relation to the grant of the island was as follows: "At a general meeting of the freemen of the town of Colechester, the 3rd day of the 5th month, 1640, it was ordered yt (that) George Carr shall have the island where he now dwells, as well as the marsh and upland, it being the greatest island within the town limits, in the Merrimack river, to him and to his heirs and assigns forever." Oct. 7, 1640, it was ordered by the General

Court that "Colechester is henceforth to be called Salisbury."

The island was the home of the Carrs for a number of generations, and the possession of this island gave the family the monopoly of the ferrying business across the river in ye olden times. This ferry at George Carr's death was considered to be worth £400. Two of the family were drowned while attending the ferry. The large house on Carr's Island was destroyed by fire, May 9, 1797. George Carr died in Salisbury, April 4. 1682, and his second wife Elizabeth, died in the same place, May 6, 1691. Their children, all born in Salisbury, were,

7×1. Elizabeth Carr, b. April 21, 1642.
8×2. George Carr, b. April 15, 1644.
9 3. Richard Carr, b. March 16, 1646, d. April 25, 1649.
10×4, William Carr, b. March 15, 1648.
11×5. Jame Carr, b, April 28, 1650.
12×6. Mary Carr, b. Feb. 29, 1652.
13×7. Sarah Carr, b. Dec. 17, 1654.
14 8. John Carr, b. Nov. 14, 1656, d. Dec. 25, 1689.
15×9. Richard Carr, b. April 2, 1659.
16×10. Ann Carr, b. June 15, 1661.

I. JAMES CARR was born in London, Eng., about 1601. He ran away from home when a boy and went to sea, and afterward became a sea captain. He was drowned while on a voyage from the West Indies to Boston. It is presumed that he had no family.

SECOND GENERATION.

II. ROBERT CARR (2) born in London, Eng., Oct. 4, 1614, came to America with his brother Caleb, on the ship Elizabeth Ann, commanded by Capt. Roger Cooper, which sailed from London, May 9, 1635. From an old shipping record in London, we find the following: "Calebb Carr, aged 19; and Robert Carr, aged 21, described as a 'tayler,' sailed for New England, on the 9th of May, 1635, in the Elizabeth Ann." These two brothers who were both minors, were sent to America after the death of their parents, to live with their uncle William, who had previously settled in Bristol, R. I. A few years later the two brothers settled in Newport, R. I.

Robert Carr was admitted as an inhabitant in Portsmouth, Feb. 21, 1639, and a freeman in Newport, March 16, 1641. He was one of the original purchasers of the island of Conanicut in Narragansett bay, of the Indians, which contained about six thousand acres. He also acquired considerable property in Newport. His will was dated April 20, 1681, as he had determined on a voyage to New York and New Jersey. He died in 1681, and his will was proved, Oct. 4, 1681. The following is a copy of his last will and testament:

"Being now in my perfect health and memory, and being bound on a voyage to New York and New Jersey, and aged sixty-seven, and not knowing how the Lord may deal with me in my intended voyage, and knowing certainly that I must once die, though uncertain when, yet being desirous to set my house in order, do make and appoint this to be my last will and testament."

"Imprimis.—I commit my soul into the arms of Jesus Christ my Redeemer, and my body to the dust, to be decently buried, and so my worldly estate I dispose of as followeth:"

"Firstly, I give and bequeath to my loving wife, all my household stuff and movables, excepting my sheep at Conanicut, and £20 in money to be paid her yearly during her natural life by my sons hereinafter named."

"Second, I give to my eldest child, Caleb Carr, all my land at Conanicut, alias Jamestown, he paying my wife £10 a year in money during her natural life, and pay John Hicks, his children by my daughter Mary, £20."

"Third, I give my son Robert Carr, and to the heirs of his body lawfully begotten, my dwelling house and wharf from the corner post that leads into the well yard upon a straight line to the sea, (only the privilege of the highway between the house and the well yard to be common up to John Brown's house, and the wharf to be free for my sons and daughters for any goods they shall bring on or off of said wharf,) and to have all the land upon the straight line from that post adjoining to the house and pasture, except what is given to my son-in-law, James Brown, and the privilege of the well and a way to it, and pay to his mother £7 in money yearly during her natural life."

"Fourth, I give to my son Esek, all my land from the corner post of the well yard next to the street side of land I sold Nicholas Davis, now in possession of Francis Brinley and Caleb Carr, together with the privilege of the highway between the house and the land and a highway down to my wharf, and the privilege of the wharf, only the well to be common and free for my mansion dwelling house, and a highway to it for him and the heirs of his body lawfully begotten, to enjoy the same and to pay to his mother yearly £3 in money."

"Fifth, I give and bequeath to my son-in-law James Brown, and to his child he hath by my daughter Elizabeth, all that land he hath built upon and fenced in, with two rods in length more or less, even with his land as it is fenced in the uppermost piece behind his house next to Mr. Brenton's, with the privilege of the highway from the Broad street to his house and land."

"Sixth, I give and bequeath to my daughter Margaret, all my sheep at Conanicut, alias Jamestown, and the horseflesh to be sold and the value of them to be returned to her, except one yearling colt come of a young mare which I gave my son Caleb."

"I do nominate and appoint my beloved wife executrix and my two sons, Caleb and Robert Carr, executors to this my last will and testament, and as overseers I desire my brother Caleb Carr and Walter Clarke to be everseers to see my will to all intents and purposes be performed. ROBERT CARR.

Signed, sealed and published, before us, April 20, 1681,

HENRY DYRE, JOHN WILLIAMS."

"John Williams and Henry Dyre appeared before the council, the 4th day of October, 1681, and upon their engagements declared that they saw Robert Carr, deceased, of Newport, sign and own the above written will to be his last will, and that he was in perfect health and memory.

Taken before the court, WESTON CLARKE, Clerk."

The name of Robert Carr's wife is not known, nor when she died. Their children were as follows:

17×1. Caleb Carr.
18×2. Elizabeth Carr.
19×3. Mary Carr.
20×4. Robert Carr.
21×5. Esek Carr.
22×6. Margaret Carr.

II. GOV. CALEB CARR (3) born in London, Eng., Dec. 9, 1616, came to America with his brother Robert, on the ship Elizabeth Ann, which sailed from London, May 9, 1635. He settled in Newport, R. I., with his brother Robert about 1640. He held many offices of public trust and honor during his lifetime, and accumulated considerable property. He was general treasurer from May 21, 1661, to May 22, 1662. In 1687-8, he was justice of the General Quarterly Session and Inferior Court of Common Pleas. He was governor of the colony in 1695, which last office he held till his death, which occurred on the 17th day of December, of the same year. He was drowned. In religious belief he was a Friend or Quaker.

He had seven children by his first wife Mercy, (probably Mercy Vaughan) who died Sept. 21, 1675, and was buried in the family burying ground. The inscription on her gravestone reads as follows: "Here lieth interred ye body of Mercy Carr, first wife of Caleb Carr, who departed this life ye 21st day of September, in ye 45th year of her age, and in the year of our Lord, 1675. His second wife was Sarah Clarke, (Widow Pinner) daughter of Jeremiah Clarke, and sister of Gov. Walter Clarke, and by whom he had four children. She was born in 1651 and died in 1706.

He died Dec. 17, 1695, and was buried in the family burying ground on Mill street, beside his first wife. The inscription on his tombstone reads: "Here lieth interred the body of Caleb Carr, governor of this colony, who departed this life ye 17th day of December, 1695, in ye 73rd (79) year of his age."

The following is a copy of Gov. Caleb Carr's last will and testament:

"In the name of God, Amen. The eighth day of March, in the year of our Lord one thousand six hundred and ninety-three or four, 1693-4, I, Caleb Carr, of Newport, on Rhode Island, in their Majesty's colony of Rhode Island, King's Province and Providence Plantation, in New England, in America, being ..... years of age, and being now of perfect mind and memory, (thanks be given unto God,) therefore calling to mind the mortality of my body, and knowing that it is appointed for all men once to die, do make and ordain this my last will and testament, in manner and form following: That is to say, first and principally, I give my soul into the hands of God who gave it me, and for my body, I commend it to ye earth, to be buried in christian and decent manner; and as touching such worldly estate wherewith it hath pleased God to bless me in this life, I give, demise, bequeath and dispose in manner and form following:"

"Imprimis.—That all just debts which I do owe unto any person or persons be paid in convenient time after my decease by my executors hereinafter named."

"Item.—Unto my dear wife, Sarah Carr, I give and bequeath forty pounds in money, to be paid her within a year's time after my decease, and three gold rings that now she hath, one of which my will is that she shall give to my daughter Sarah Carr, and another daughter Elizabeth Carr, and the other to whom she pleaseth. Also, I give and bequeath to my said wife Sarah Carr, a silver possnet and the cover belonging to it and two silver spoons, and one milch cow, forty sheep, a horse or mare, whether of which she shall make choice of, of mine, also my great looking-glass and the new great bible. Further, I do give unto my said wife Sarah Carr, the fifth part of the beds and bedding, pewter and brass, and the fifth part of all other household stuff that I do not now dispose of by this my will, nor shall not dispose of before the time of my decease. Further, I give and bequeath unto my said wife Sarah Carr, my Negro woman Hannah. Further, my will is that my said wife Sarah Carr, shall have after my decease, the house wherein my son John Carr now liveth, on the back side of my dwelling house, to live in during the time of her widowhood, together with privilege in the yard convenient to lay her wood, and in use of the well for her own use for herself and family, and the use of the lower garden to the eastward of the yard, as it is new fenced in with rail and wharfage, free for her own occupation without charge to her."

"Item.--I give and bequeath unto my son Nicholas Carr, and to his heirs, executors, administrators and assigns, forever, my farm, being and lying on the island of Conanicut, containing by estimation seven score acres, which I formerly leased unto him for about twenty years, as by said lease may appear, with dwelling house he now dwelleth in thereon, and all other out houses, buildings and fences thereon as privileges thereunto or belonging, as also that right in the share of Dutch island which belongeth to the said farm. Further, I give and bequeath to my said son, Nicholas Carr, his heirs, executors, administrators and assigns, forever, forty acres of land lying on the west side of the highway, over against my brother Robert Carr, his land on the said Conanicut island, as also ten acres of land on the said island which I purchased of John Peckham, jr., and also twelve acres of land at the head of the forty acres aforesaid, which twelve acres I purchased or bought of Benedict Arnold. Further, I give and bequeath to my son Nicholas Carr, his heirs, executors, administrators and assigns, forever, one-fourth of my share of land at Gould island, as also twenty-five feet in length of land from the west end of my ware house now standing upon my wharf here in Newport; the said land to be twenty foot in breadth, that if he see cause he may build upon it, or otherwise improve it. Further, I give and bequeath unto my said son Nicholas Carr, his heirs and assigns, my great bible, my seal ring and my little cabinet. Further, my will is that my said son Nicholas Carr, his heirs or assigns shall pay or cause to be paid unto my now wife Sarah Carr, yearly during the time of her widowhood, twenty shillings a year in wood or provisions, equivalent to money, and that my said son Nicholas Carr shall have privilege of my wharf here in Newport, for his own occasions."

"Item.—I give and bequeath unto my son Caleb Carr, and to his heirs, executors, administrators and assigns, forever, the land at Conanicut, which I bought of Jirah Bull, Thomas Waterman and Richard Dunn, with the house and housing now upon it which he now liveth in with the right in Dutch island belonging unto the said land, and also one quarter, or one fourth part of my land at Gould island, and the gold ring I do now wear, commonly called hand in hand and heart between, and my desk with draws for writings. Further, my will is, that my son Caleb Carr, shall pay unto my now wife, Sarah Carr, yearly during the time of her widowhood, twenty shillings a year in wood or provisions equivalent to money, delivered her here upon the wharf, I do also give and bequeath unto my said son Caleb Carr, his heirs, executors administrators and assigns, forever, all my right, title and interest in the forty-eight acres of land which I purchased of the said Arnold."

"Item.—I give and bequeath to my grandson Job Carr, the son of my son Samuel Carr, the house wherein John Davis now liveth at the sign of ye ship here in Newport, and ye long house above it, and all ye land I bought of Mr. Arnold, westward of the highway and northward of a highway which belongeth to the said housings, all of which I give and bequeath to my said grandson Job Carr, his heirs, executors, administrators or assigns, forever, only reserving a cart way to the warehouse and wharf, and my will is that what I have herein given to my grandson Job Carr, shall be kept in the hands of my executors until he comes of age, and then delivered unto him, and in ye mean time the income thereof to be paid by them toward the bringing him up."

"Item.—My will is that if any of my sons, Nicholas, Caleb, John and Edward Carr, or my grandson Job Carr, son of my son Samuel Carr, should die without heirs, then what I have given to either of them shall be equally divided amongst the rest that shall survive them; they my said sons, Nicholas, Caleb, John and Edward Carr, and Samuel the father of my grandson Job Carr, having all had one mother. And if any of my four children which I have had by my now wife Sarah Carr, should die without heirs, then what I have given to either of them shall be equally divided amongst the rest of these four, for they likewise had all one mother. Further, my will is, that if my wife Sarah Carr, the mother of these four last children, Francis, James, Sarah and Elizabeth, which I had by her, see cause to take all or any of them for ye bringing of them up, she shall have the estate which I have given to them committed to her management for ye bringing them up till they come of age, and then by her delivered unto them, the boys their part when they arrive to be twenty-one years of age, and the girls their part at eighteen years of age, or on day of marriage. But if she ought not thereof, then they shall be taken care of and brought up to learning at the discretion of my executors according to this my will. And futher, my will is, that if my wife Sarah Carr ought not of, nor be satisfied with what I shall have given her by this my will in lieu of her dowery, and give discharge under her hand and seal that my estate shall not be troubled or disturbed by herself or any other person, by, from, or under her, in the hands of these I have bequeathed it unto; but on ye contrary shall cause disturbance unto them in the possession thereof about her dowery, then my will is, that my executors shall take all my estate both real and personal into their hands, and whatsoever she shall recover, shall be abated out of what estate I gave unto my four children which I had by her, and in lieu thereof, only twenty pounds apiece shall be paid to each of them by my executors hereafter named, and for all other lands that are mine and not disposed of by me in this my will, I give and bequeath to my grand children, to be equally divided between them."

"And this my last will and testament, I make and ordain my well beloved sons, Nicholas Carr and Caleb Carr, my full and whole executors, and if one of them die, then my will is that the other of them yt shall survive shall be full and whole executor thereunto, and do hereby utterly disallow, revoke, annul and make void all and every other former testament, wills, legacies, bequests and executors, by me, in anywise before this time willed and bequeathed, ratifying and confirming this and no other to be my last will and testament."

"In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and seal ye day and year above written. CALEB CARR, [SEAL]"

COMMISSION OF CAPT. THOMAS PAINE.

"Sir Thomas Lynch, Knight, one of the gentlemen of his Majesty's bed chamber, and Captain General and Governor in Chief of his Majesty's Island of Jamaica and territories thereunto depending, and Vice Admiral to his Royal Highness, James, Duke of York, in the American seas."

"Whereas, I am informed there are several pirates that have most barbarously murthured divers of his Majesty's subjects, robbing others and taking several vessels, cursing the King, and not so much as pretending to belong to any Prince, or to have any commission of war. These are therefore to authorize Capt. Thomas Paine, commander of the Frigate Pearl, to seize the said pirates, and to take, kill and destroy the said pirates and their ships, provided they resist and cannot be brought in, for doing which this shall be your warrant. I likewise, hereby further assure you and your men, that for such service you shall have all the favor they can expect, or I can render you and them."

"Given under my hand, this 13th of October, 1682. Jamaica.

Signed, THOMAS LYNCH.

By His Excellency Commanding, Henry Harrington, Sect."

He died in 1714, and his estate was settled by his son Samuel, as heir to his property, according to the wishes of his father as follows:

"First, I give a lot of land adjoining to Joseph Gardiner's dwelling place in Newport, bound west and north on land of James Carr, east on ye graveyard, and south on land or street leading to stone windmill. Also one small house and warehouse adjoining on ye wharf, heretofore my grandfather's, with the wharf and land whereon they stand, and the whole breadth thereof to Capt. Mumford's lane, and also one-half of remainder of said wharf, except the part where Joseph Gardiner's shop stands, and the yard north thereof the width of said shop to Capt. Mumford's line, which I reserve to myself; all of which I convey and confirm to my brother Caleb Carr, and his heirs and assigns forever."

"Second, I give my father's mansion house and outhouse adjacent, and the land adjoining and belonging thereto, bound north on Capt. Ellery's land; east on land of my said father; south on the street; and west on land now in possession of Alexander Mason, I convey to my brother John Carr."

"Third, I give the south-west corner or district tenement in which Alexander Mason now dwells, unto my brother Francis Carr."

"Fourth, I give my sister Ann Barker, the one-half or westmore end of the new house built by my father, with one-half of the garden adjoining, with 16 feet at the west end of the house, and 20 feet back from the street."

"Fifth, I give my sister Patience the other half of said house and land."

"Sixth, I give assurance of all the above bequests, provided my mother have the use of all said gifts until each party comes of age, except my brother's mansion house, which I reserve to myself until Alexander Mason's house comes into my hands, until which time I grant my mother equal privileges in said house, and when the said parties come of age, they shall pay to my mother their proportional part of £20 per annum. And that the well at the mansion house shall be free to all the brothers and sisters, and my mother shall have all the movables of the estate, she paying the debts therof. And if any of these parties die without issue, then all the property shall revert to me and my heirs, and for the due performance of all of these provisions, I bind myself in the penal sum of £500, N. "Not human skill, nor prayers, nor tears could save,
From the dark chamber of the silent grave,
Thus are we from our fondest hopes beguiled –
The tenderest husband and the sweetest child.
In this distinguished day of both bereft,
The happiest wife a mournful widow left,
Does to their much loved memory bestow
This stone, sad monument of real woe."

V. NICHOLAS CARR (315) born in Jamestown, R. I., Dec. 25, 1732, married Mary Eldred, of John, Nov. 10, 1768. She died June 13, 1800, and he died March 3, 1813. The following revolutionary story is told of Nicholas Carr: As he was plowing on his farm on the east side of the island of Conanicut, he was approached one day by the captain of an English man-of-war, which was blockading Narragansett bay, and in an insolent manner commanded him to stop his team, which order was wholly disregarded, and this so enraged the captain that he up with his cane and struck the independent farmer a blow on his head. War was instantly declared, and the patriotic Conanicut farmer and the aggressive English captain fought the battle of the revolution in miniature, and pompous John Bull was a sight to behold after he had been rolled in the dirt until he cried for quarters. He went off to his ship in great fury and sent a file of marines ashore who took Carr and made him a prisoner in irons on board of the ship for three days, and every day a rope was put around his neck and he was given the choice of getting down on his knees and kiss the hand of the loyal subject of the king and be liberated, or be hung at the yardarm of the vessel. Finding that the fear of hanging had no effect on the old patriot, he was liberated and sent ashore. He was afterwards appointed judge of the court of Newport county, which office he held for a number of years. The children of Nicholas and Mary Carr were,

He was a prosperous farmer, and also carried on the business of carriage and wagon making. He left many manuscripts bearing his name, which attest that he was an earnest religious man, and a firm believer in the faith of the Quakers. The following is his charge to his children: "As your dear mother but a short time before her death, besides giving you her charge, desired of me that you might be brought up in the fear of the Lord; and my desire as your father is this, that you may have the fear of God always before your eyes, and be faithful in going to Friends' meetings, and of a sober, civil behavior. And as it was her wish, so it is mine, that you should not make yourselves too fine. Speak no bad words, take not God's name in vain by any means, keep no bad company, tell no falsehoods, be not forward in idle discourse, be just in your dealings as I have been, punctual to your promises, charitable to the poor, and keep to the Friends' plain language. And if you should arrive to be men and women, and are inclined to marry, set not your affections on any person till you find them to be well grounded in your own religion, and to be living in the fear of God. For that with a morsel will be better to you than great riches without it. To my children, given by me your father, 4th month, 19th day, 1762, CALEB CARR."

"Whereas Samuel Carr, son of Caleb and Sarah his wife, of the township of Northampton, in the county of Burlington, and province of West Jersey; and Ann French, daughter of Robert French and Hannah his wife, of the township of Chester, in the county and province aforesaid; they having declared their intentions of marriage with each other before several monthly meetings of the people called Quakers, held at Evesham, in the county and province aforesaid, and having consent of parents and relatives concerned, their said proposals were allowed by said meeting."

"Now this may certify to all whom it may concern, that for the full accomplishment of their said intentions, this twentieth day of the twelfth month, one thousand seven hundred and eighty-one, 1781, they the said Samuel Carr and Ann French, appeared in a public meeting of the aforesaid people, met together at their house in Evesham; and the said Samuel Carr taking the said Ann French by the hand, did in a solemn manner openly declare that he took her, the said Ann French, to be his wife, promising through divine assistance, to be unto her a loving and faithful husband until death should separate them."

"And then and there in the same assembly, the said Ann French did in like manner declare that she took him, the said Samuel Carr, to be her husband, promising through divine assistance, to be unto him a loving and faithful wife until death should separate them; and moreover, they the said Samuel Carr and Ann French, she according to the custom of marriage, assuming the name of her husband, as a further confirmation thereof, have hereunto set their hands." SAMUEL CARR, ANN CARR.

"And we whose names are hereunto subscribed, being present at the solemnization of said marriage and subscriptions, have as witnesses, set our hands, the day and year first above written."

VI. SAMUEL CARR (697) born in Jamestown, R. I., Sept. 26, 1756, married Damaris Underwood, Aug. 24, 1780, by Rev. Gardiner Thurston, a Baptist minister in Newport. She was born in Jamestown, March 7, 1763, and died in Newport, R. I., May 18, 1798, and was buried in the family burying ground in Jamestown. He was drowned in Newport, March 21, 1814. The following is taken from a Newport paper published at the time of his death: "Died in this town on Monday evening last, Samuel Carr, Esq., aged 58 years. The circumstances of his death were peculiarly distressing. He had been to visit a sick uncle, (Capt. John Carr, p. 63) on Washington street, and departing from there at 7 o'clock, p. m., when he was blown off the causeway leading from Washington street to the Long Wharf, the wind blowing almost a hurricane. His body was found the next morning, and will be interred this day in the family graveyard at Jamestown. In the sudden death of this valuable citizen, his family has to mourn the loss of a kind and indulgent father; his friends and associates, one whose advice, sincerity and friendship could be relied upon; society one of its most useful members, and his country one of its early, warm and indefatigable supporters. To the poor and distressed his purse as well as his hands were ever open, and his active benevolence let him perform many acts of kindness and liberality without ostentation or parade; and it may be said of him, that in his death the community realize the loss of a philanthropist and a truly honest man." He was a member of the house of Burgesses, and introduced and carried a bill of rights, which was regarded as the entering wedge to the separation of the colonies from England. His speech on that occasion was regarded by Mr. Jefferson as a "master-piece of patriotic eloquence," and he was considered the ablest man of his age in America. (See Wirt's life of Patrick Henry, p. 108.) On this subject Mr. Jefferson writes: "I well remember the pleasure expressed in the countenances and conversation of the members generally on this debut of Mr. Carr, and the hopes they conceived as well from the talent as the patriotism manifested. But he died within two months after, and in him we lost a powerful fellow laborer. His character was of a high order. Of spotless integrity, sound judgment, handsome imagination, enriched by education and reading; quick and clear in his conceptions, his correct and ready elocution impressed every hearer with the sincerity of the heart from which it flowed. His firmness was inflexible in whatever he thought was right, but when no moral principle stood in the way, never had man more of the milk of human kindness, of indulgence of softness, of pleasantry in conversation and conduct." He died at the age of thirty, in Charlottsville, Va., May 16, 1773, leaving a family of six children as follows:

VII. CAPT. JOHN CARR (1262) born about 1767, in Massachusetts or Connecticut, married Prudence Benton, in Galway, N. Y., in 1788. He was only a boy at the close of the revolutionary war, but he had early imbibed a spirit for military adventure, which led him to some extent to participate in the Indian warfare following the close of the revolution. Before he had arrived to manhood, he with six of his comrades were one day surprised and captured by a band of Indians who lay in ambush along their route, and taken a long distance into the Indian country. The usual penalty of death was the decree of the redmen's council, and active preparations were made to have the execution as painful as possible. They were all staked down to the ground, blazing fagots applied to their bodies, and subjected to a lingering death of most excruciating agony. All suffered death in this horrible manner but John Carr, whom the chief discovered to be a fine singer, and while his comrades shrieked in their awful suffering by the slow fire of death, he was made to sing their heart-rending requiem. After the consummation of this fiendish work of the savages, they all got beastly drunk on the liquor they had plundered from the settlers on their raid, excepting one who was to guard the remaining prisoner. Toward morning when the whole camp was in a drunken stupor, the guard sent Carr with a camp kettle to a spring near by for some water. He gladly complied with the order, but instead of returning, left the kettle at the spring and boldly struck out for liberty. For three days and the intervening nights he kept on his weary way without sleep, subsisting only on a few berries and such slender twigs as he could grasp in his hasty flight. It was nearly nightfall of the third day when he came out of the forest and found protection and safety; and only an hour later, his Indian captors who had pressed so closely on his trail, appeared in the edge of the woods, but too late to recover their escaped prisoner.

He was captain of a company of state militia, and his commission, which is in the writer's possession, bears the date of June 15, 1793, and signed by George Clinton, governor of the state of New York, for the county of Saratoga. About 1800 he moved from Galway first to Crownpoint, and a year or two later to Ticonderoga, N. Y., where he lived the remainder of his life. He was in the battle of Plattsburgh with his oldest son. His wife died in Ticonderoga in 1831, and he died in the same place in April, 1832. Their children were,

Soon after he was elected professor of chemistry, of Castleton Medical college, of Castleton, Vt., a position he held for 12 years. From Castleton he moved to Albany, N. Y., where he held the professorship of chemistry and pharmacy in the Albany Medical college, and gave frequent popular scientific lectures to working men. He was tendered a professorship in the State University, of Madison, Wis., and was also appointed a commissioner of the geological survey of the state, which induced him to move to Madison. During the war he gave the required course of instructions in chemistry in the Rush Medical college, of Chicago. In 1868 he resigned his position in eastern institutions to enjoy a year's vacation in California. Fascinated by the charms of climate and scenery, he decided to make a home in that delightful state, and accepted the professorship of agriculture and chemistry in its University, where he served for six years. In 1876 he was elected state superintendent of public instruction, a position he held for four years, during which time important changes were made in the school system. In 1880 he retired to Southern California, broken down in health, where he now resides at Pasadena. During his residence in Castleton, Vt., he married Jennie C. He prepared for college at the Fruit Hill Classical Institute, at that time a flourishing seminary, and entered Brown University in 1853, graduated in the class of 1857, with the degree of Master of Arts. On leaving college, he entered upon the study of medicine in the office of Dr. J. W. C. Ely, of Providence. He pursued his medical studies in the National Medical college, Washington, D. C., and in the University of Pennsylvania, graduating from the latter institution with the degree of M. D., in 1860. Returning to Providence, he entered upon the practice of medicine and surgery, and was appointed assistant Surgeon General of the state. The civil war broke out the follwing year which called him away from private life. With other members of the general staff of the state, he was transferred to the first troops raised in Rhode Island, and commissioned assistant surgeon in the 1st regiment, Rhode Island detached militia, commanded by Col. Burnside. He continued with the regiment during its short but active service, being under Gen. Patterson in Maryland, and under Gen. Scott at the battle of Bull Run. After the 1st regiment was mustered out, he was appointed assistant surgeon of the 2nd regiment R. I. vol., and was subsequently promoted to the office of surgeon, serving in that capacity and as brigade operating surgeon in the 4th and 6th army corps, participating in the battles at Yorktown, Mechanicsville, Gaines Mill, Fair Oaks, Seven Pines, Melvin Hill, Antietam, Fredericksburgh, Wilderness, Gettysburgh, Mine Run, Rappahannock, Spottsylvania, Cold Harbor, Hanover Junction, and other engagements. At the close of the war, he resumed the practice of his profession in Providence. He was admitted to the R. I. state medical society and to the Providence medical association in 1860, and was president of the latter from March 7, 1870, to March 4, 1872. He was appointed physician of the R. I. state prison, July 14, 1868, and continued to fill that position until the removal of that institution from Providence in 1878. He has been U. S. examining surgeon of pensions twenty-five years, having been appointed in 1868. He was surgeon of the R. I. hospital twenty years, receiving his appointment at the opening of that institution in 1868, and resigning in 1888. He was six years a member and president of the board of examiners of R. I. state medical society. He is consulting surgeon of the R. I. hospital, Butler hospital for the insane, and St. Elizabeth's Home. He has been closely identified with the state militia and national guards, having been brigade surgeon for several years. On the re-organization of the state militia he was made medical director, and served in that capacity for thirteen years. He was the first surgeon of the Grand Army of the Republic in the state, and was for several years medical director. NOTES AND CORRECTIONS.

The Carr coat of arms which forms the frontispiece of this book is a copy of the original document which was brought to this country by George Carr in 1620, who came over on the Mayflower. It descended in his family line to his son James[2], John[3], James[4], Daniel[5], Thomas[6], and is now the property of his youngest daughter, Mrs. Adelaide Humphrey, of Chicago, Ills. It bears the partly obliterated signature of one of the Carrs of the house of Somerset. Its exact counterpart was brought over by William Carr, a brother of George Carr, in 1621, and has come down to the present time in his family line. It is now in the possession of Elbridge Gerry Carr, of Mexico, Me.

CORRECTIONS.

Richard Carr (54) born in Salisbury, Mass., Jan. 1693–4, married Lydia Coffin, daughter of Stephen Coffin, of Newbury, Mass. Their intentions of marriage were recorded Oct. 29, 1715, and the marriage was consumated Nov. 18, 1715. She was born in Newbury, July 21, 1691.

No, 185. James Carr born Oct. 20, 1727.

No. 2823 Henry Burwell instead of Burnell.

Page 264 Stephen Cooper was drowned in the spring of 1828 instead of 1827.
